Archaeological Data Networking in Europe

ARIADNE in una slide

- ARIADNE (2013-2017) è una Infrastruttura di Ricerca Europea per l'integrazione degli archivi digitali archeologici
- Integrazione a due livelli
 - Scoperta delle risorse digitali registrate in un catalogo (lo ARIADNE REGISTRY)
 - Integrazione vera e propria di archivi affini (sperimentale)

The ARIADNE Partnership

- Coordinator
- Partner
- Associate

Integrazione di archivi

- Per ora solo attuata – a livello sperimentale – solo fra archivi simili per contenuto (ad es. monete), periodo, luogo, messi a disposizione dai partner
- Basata su schemi di metadati corrispondenti ottenuti attraverso operazioni di mappatura a uno standard comune
- Ovviamente è necessario l'Accesso Libero
- Primi risultati previsti per fine 2015

Scoperta delle risorse digitali

- Le risorse digitali archeologiche sono catalogate dai partner (e in futuro da chi vorrà partecipare) nel Registro, usando uno schema di metadati descrittivi
- Il sistema fornisce strumenti di ricerca basati su semplici categorie: Cosa, Dove, Quando
- Nella lista dei risultati si possono selezionare quelli che interessano e accedervi “direttamente”
- Il sistema funziona già a livello sperimentale
- Oltre 70.000 risorse archeologiche digitali presenti
- Rilasciato nell'estate 2015

Problemi?

- Meno del previsto!
- Quasi tutte le risorse richiedono una registrazione per dare accesso: occorre realizzare un sistema di AAA (autenticazione-autorizzazione-accesso) centralizzato a livello europeo per snellire l'accesso, simile a eduroam
- Con un tale sistema si potrebbero identificare i profili utente del sistema europeo con quelli dei vari archivi e “mascherare” automaticamente i dati sensibili, non accessibili a quel tipo di utente
- Senza un tale sistema ... siamo solo un Google per l'archeologia (ma più intelligente)
- Il MIBACT ha presentato una proposta in questo senso alla Commissione Europea

Europeana?

Oh mamma mia!

 - Facilitati da un sistema al passo con i tempi

Risultati della ricerca

The screenshot shows the ARIADNE metadata registry interface. On the left is a dark sidebar with navigation links: Home, Search (with a dropdown for Datasets, Collections, and Advanced Search), Map based search, Provider info, Provider data, Ariadne subject, and About. The main content area has a search bar with 'bronze age' entered. Below the search bar, six results are displayed in a grid. Each result includes a classical building icon, a title, a type (Dataset), a subject (Fieldwork databases), and a 'more...' link. The results are as follows:

A Bronze Age Cremation Burial From Upton, Northampton: Upton Flood Attenuation (Phase 2), Northampton, Archaeological Watching Brief	Dataset	Fieldwork databases	more...
